REVIVAL CLOSING WITH CROWD OF 3500 PEOPLE AND 65 CONVERSIONS

CLOSING SERMON ATTRACTS CROWD

Unsaved Must Either Reject, Neglect or Accept Jesus, Says Rev.

W. W. Orr.

FORTY-SEVEN CONVERSIONS

Last Meeting of Revival Proves to be Banner One of the Series—Great Interest Shown.

The closing of the revival last night was marked by the largest crowd and the largest number of conversions than at any other of the meetings. The crowd was estimated at 3500 and many people were forced to stand in the exits and even in the alley and on the sidewalk. The converts numbered 47, the largest at any one meeting. It was announced that next Sunday the services would be held in the churches. There will probably be union services on Sunday evenings as soon as arrangements can be completed.

The Rev. Mr. Orr urged all those who have confessed to join church as soon as the ministers opened their doors. He brought out that the ministers were ready to receive anyone and especially those who belonged to church elsewhere but lived in this city. He asked that these people transfer their membership to this city.

The Evangelist took for the subject of his last sermon here, the question of eternal destiny. This great question was divided into two parts, the first was to the Christians and the last to the unsaved. He told the story of when Jesus was on trial for His life and the trouble Pilate had in deciding what to do with Him. Pilate was troubled as to just what course to pursue. "He did the logical thing and no politician of the twentieth century could have beaten Pilate at the game," said the Rev. Mr. Orr, and he put the responsibility on the people and let them take either Jesus or Barabbas. In this manner he hoped to escape. Pilate did not know what to do with Jesus and it is a personal question with us. What shall I do with Jesus?

"You Christians can be true or untrue, loyal or disloyal, faithful or unfaithful to Him. Jesus placed his honor in our hands when he departed from this land and what we do with Him depends on ourselves," said the evangelist. "Children in our schools are taught to hate Benedict Arnold because he was a traitor. Benedict Arnold was all the name traitor implies. How many parents name their children Judas? Not very many, I assure you, because the name Judas immediately brings the idea of a traitor. If we Christian people will be true to Him, we can take this land for Jesus. He is depending on you and me, shall we disappoint Him?"

The Rev. Mr. Orr gave a description of Napoleon as a leader of men. He stated that in his opinion most of the battles won by Napoleon's army, were the result of his influence and power over the men. "When I read the history of the battle of Waterloo, it seems a shame that he should have lost the fight, for I always hold him up as a hero and after fighting as he did, then to lose, it almost seems unreasonable," said he. Continuing he said, "Napoleon told his men to fight for him and France and they generally did. We are today under a better

PAYS TRIBUTE TO W. W. ORR, THE MAN

Vast Audience Rises as One and Gives Evangelist Chautauqua Salute at Close.

DAY'S OFFERINGS TOTAL $814.92

Number of Converts During Meeting is Estimated at 250—Ministers Adopt Resolutions.

It was a tribute to the man, Orr, the vast audience at the tabernacle last night paid to the evangelist at the closing meeting of the most successful revival ever held here, when the crowd waved their handkerchiefs as one and gave the popular minister of the gospel the familiar chautauqua salute. He was so near a state of collapse that he could not rise to his feet to answer the compliment. He only said "God be With You."

As it seems today after the meeting has come to a close and Rushville is to resume the even tenor of its ways once more, there never were so many complimentary things said about one man who ever visited Rushville. He leaves a host of friends behind who learned to like him as a man and a brother as well as an evangelist. He entered into the work with all the life and energy at his command and at several different times during the meeting he has been on the verge of a nervous collapse. As he stated yesterday, he has given more physical strength to this meeting than to any one in twelve months. What time he was not preaching he was laboring by individual work to bring unsaved people to lead another life.

At the close of last night's meeting his hand was shaken no less than a thousand times, until he was almost exhausted. Mothers, whose sons have been converted during the meeting, fathers, brothers, sisters, children and all sought to grasp his hand for a moment. Practically the whole audience of people passed over the stage and by his chair before the doors were finally closed at twelve o'clock.

Last night was the most enthusiastic and again the most profitable meeting which was ever held here and was a fitting climax to the highly successful revival. Besides being the largest crowd of the meeting, the largest number of converts were turned over to the churches of Rushville. It is estimated that more people were within the sound of his voice than have ever gathered at any one assembly in Rushville. And aside from that, forty-seven people were led to accept Christ.

The last few stragglers did not leave the tabernacle before midnight. And by remaining a few of the workers added two to the night's list of converted. At eleven o'clock there were forty-five in the large class that went forward. Most of the people who remained for the after meeting departed about that time. The workers continued with a few who had not decided the question of soul's salvation and their labors were not without fruit.

And Rushville's appreciation did not consist wholly of handshakes, kind words and chautauqua salutes, for the Rev. W. W. Orr carried away with him this morning $814.92 which was taken up in offerings and subscriptions at the tabernacle yesterday. It was agreed that he should

SEVERE STORM STRIKES COUNTY

Heavy Rain, Accompanied by Strong Wind and Lightning Plays Havoc With Crops.

NO DAMAGE IN RUSHVILLE

Two Horses, Worth $400 Belonging to Jesse Hungerford of Orange Township, Are Killed.

A severe rain storm, accompanied by a strong wind, great electrical display and terrific reports of thunder passed over this city about noon today. The storm passed over the greater part of the county, according to reports from all of the smaller towns at the edge of the county. At no place was any damage done with the exception of the killing of two horses in Orange township.

Although no bad damage was reported it is thought that the strong wind damaged the wheat crop to some extent. It is said that much of the wheat was blown over and that it may not dry out thoroughly in places before the time to cut it. It is said that much wheat was laid over on the ground and that it will get damp and musty if the rainy weather continues.

Since the storm has passed it has been said that very little damage was done to the corn crop. Although some of the corn has grown to an advanced stage it is not believed that it was tall enough for the strong wind to do any great damage to it. Much of the oats was blown over, according to all reports.

In Richland and vicinity and in fact all over Orange township, the storm is reported to be by far the most severe this season. Two horses belonging to Jesse Hungerford of Orange township were killed instantly by lightning. They were valued at four hundred dollars. The two animals were standing under a tree in a pasture on the Hungerford farm. The tree was torn into splinters.

No other damage from the storm was reported in Orange township. The wind was terrific at times and it was thought by people in the township that more damage than that reported had been done.

It was rumored here this morning before the storm had abated that Carthage had been swept almost off the map by the storm. Information from Carthage is to the effect that the tale is false. The storm was very mild there, perhaps as little rain falling and as little electric display as at any other point in the county.

At Mays there was a very heavy downpour of rain for almost an hour. The rain was so hard that the ground in the fields was packed down. It is thought that no damage was done in that vicinity. There was a very high wind there during the storm but very little lightning and thunder.

No damage was done at New Salem, according to information at that place, although a severe storm was in progress there for one-half hour. The wind was very strong but the lightning and thunder was very mild. As in other places the rain was very heavy.

According to word from Arlington the storm in that vicinity was as mild as it was at any point in the county, with the exception of a steady downpour of rain. There was only a few severe claps of thunder and little electrical display.

At Falmouth the storm was marked by a great display of lightning and loud peals of thunder. No damage has been reported.

At Raleigh the report is that the rain storm resembled a cloudburst, and was accompanied by a strong wind.

FIVE CONTRACTS ARE AWARDED

County Commissioners Receive Bids on Six Bridges Today and Grant Five.

ESTIMATES ON ONE REJECTED

The Burke Company Gets Cream of Work by Landing Three of the Jobs.

Bridge contracts amounting to $4,143 were awarded by the county commissioners in session today. The commissioners court was a busy scene most of the day. Contractors were here from many cities over the State, but none outside of the county was successful with the exception of a New Castle contractor and he got three of the five contracts awarded.

The contract to build the Gray bridge in Union township was given to the Burk Company of New Castle. His bid, $549, was the lowest made.

The Moscow bridge in Orange township will be built by E. L. Kennedy of this city, his bid being the lowest. It was $545.

The Burk company got the cream of the day's awards in the contract to erect the Myers bridge in Posey township. Their bid was the lowest and was $2,490.

The contract to build the Murphy bridge in Posey township also went to the Burk Company, their estimate being the lowest in that case. It was $774.

Philander Weaver of Carthage will build the Dyer bridge, also in Posey township. His estimate was $785.

All bids on the Glidden bridge were rejected.

LEAVES MASS OF WRECKAGE BEHIND

John Riggs' Horse Destroys Everything on Will Lines' Premises, Except The House.

FRIGHTENS AT A MACHINE

A frightened horse did more damage in Cherry Grove Saturday evening than one man can repair in some time, when it frightened at a passing automobile and proceeded to do a few stunts. John Riggs, living four miles southwest of the city, hitched his horse in front of the Ross Friend greenhouse, and left it while he went into the house Frank Lowe passed in his machine which was a signal for the horse to leave and it left. The horse was also left on the hitching post and the frightened animal decided to do a turn through Will Lines' yard. The decision of the horse proved disastrous to Lines for before it had been stopped it had torn down most of the fence around the Lines home. In fact, it left little but the house standing. The owner of the horse paid the damages that were incurred.

BERT CAMPBELL FINED.

Bert Campbell was fined one dollar and costs about eleven o'clock Saturday night in police court on the charge of drunkenness. Campbell was arrested Saturday afternoon by Policeman McAllister and by eleven o'clock was sober enough for trial. He pleaded guilty and paid his fine.

WILL ORGANIZE TO SAVE OTHERS

Tentative Plans Are Made at Men's Meeting For Continuation of Personal Workers' League.

REV. ORR URGES MEN TO WORK

He Says Salvation is Far Greater Than Creation of World—Men Neglect It.

Tentative plans were made at the men's big meeting at the tabernacle yesterday afternoon for the continuation and the permanent organization of the men's personal workers league which was organized and did much good work in bringing men to Christ during the revival. The same officers, E. B. Thomas, president, and John D. Megee, vice president, will be in charge until officers are elected permanently. It was announced at last night's meeting that a meeting would be held soon to perfect the organization and that the date would be announced in the newspapers this week.

At the beginning of the sermon, the Rev. Mr. Orr suggested that the meeting be carried on by the ministers for another week, but that will not be done. Later in his address the evangelist asked how many men would consecrate themselves to the work of bringing people to Jesus Christ. Approximately three hundred stood up. It was then that the Rev. Mr. Orr suggested that the men's personal league be continued. It met with approval from the audience. He pointed out that the brewers have a personal liberties league and he said that he could see no reason why the Christian men should not have a personal workers league. Again at the close of the services he asked the men who would continue in the work to stand and even more arose to their feet.

"I am going to discuss a question that no one can answer, not even—I speak it reverently when I say it—God himself," said Evangelist Orr in opening his sermon. "He never has and I do not believe that he can. He read from the Bible, 'How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?' First what do we mean by salvation? The devil gets people to say that religion comes over people, that it is a matter of feeling. He has them to tell you that it is good for old women, old men, grannies and weak-minded children."

He pointed out that salvation means to be saved from something to something. He stated that it was great in its origin by answering the question: wherein lies salvation? He said that it was that which was conceived by the divine brain. The evangelist declared that it was the grandest work of the divine brain that He has revealed to us. He described the glories of the world in his characteristic manner and averred that towering above all these is the salvation of a soul. He pointed out that God created the world with a word and could create many more by such an act, but when it came to saving a soul it took blood.

"There is only one salvation," he continued. "Its power is wonderful. It proposes to cast out devils and it does that thing today. How do you account for some of the great slum workers that have been raised from the gutters and are now doing a great work. It is great for what it will do for a fellow."

"And it is great for what it saved a man from. The drinking man tells me that he can not quit because the habit has such a hold on him. Jesus can break it because he breaks us away from sins. It provides for a man's destiny that reaches far beyond."

POLICE RAIDED BIG CRAP GAME

Eight Men Fined in Mayor's Court This Afternoon as Result of Gaming Saturday Night.

FIVE DOLLARS AND COSTS

Policemen Wolters and Harlow Put in Unexpected Appearance at Riverside Park.

A crap game was in full swing at Riverside park Saturday night about 11:15 o'clock and in the raid that followed, eight men were caught and several more are known to have been present. The game was tipped to the police and Wolters and Harlow journeyed to the park where they found the men shooting craps in one of the stables.

When the officers appeared on the scene a scatterment took place. Two men are known to have swam across the river in their mad flight from the hand of the law. The raid was the result of several complaints from this quarter. Owners of the many valuable horses stationed there were afraid that someone might become careless and fire the stables. The men were caught with the goods on and in the excitement many "beat it." The police had a majority of the names and the men appeared before Mayor Black this afternoon. All were charged with gaming and the fine made the least possible amount on the promise of "never again."

The first case was that of Lee Shy, colored, who admitted that he was running the game. Shy pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs, which was stayed.

John Carlton was the next victim, and he also pleaded guilty. His fine of five dollars and costs was paid. Carlton claimed to be a victim of circumstances as he had gone to the track to collect some money and was "roped in."

Robert Whalon was the next. Whalon entered a plea of not guilty and his trial set for Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Ed Bowen entered a plea of guilty and was fined $5 and costs which was stayed. Bowen said he was not in the stall at the time but decided to plead guilty.

Will Easley, colored, stated this was his first game in three years and the Mayor agreed with him that he was having bad luck as a starter and fined him the same as the others, $5 and costs. Easley had his fine stayed.

Harris Oneal was the next. Mr. Oneal pleaded guilty and was fined the same as the others. His fine was stayed.

"Gip" Martin, colored, put in an appearance and was fined five dollars and costs. "Gip" created much merriment by the humorous way he took his punishment. His fine was stayed.

John Smith was the last one on the docket and he pleaded guilty. Smith paid a fine of $5 and costs. According to the police there are at least three more who will be brought before the mayor.

Some of the names given appear to be aliases, but aliases or not the mayor warned them all not to ever appear before him again or they would get the limit.

SPARKS DENIES TRIAL.

Connersville News: The city of Richmond has filed notice of an appeal from the decision of Judge Sparks in the case in which Fremont Clifford asked and received judgment for $3,648 for uncovering sequestered taxes. Judge Sparks refused the city a new trial and an appeal was prayed for and granted.

SIX WOMEN WENT FORWARD

That Number Confess Their Sins and Accept Christ at M. E.
Church Service.

MRS. HARRY ROSS MAKES TALK

She Says That Greatest Joy in Woman's Life is Service—A Large Crowd.

Six women went forward at the women's mass meeting at the St. Paul M. E. church yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. Harry Ross, wife of the singing evangelist who has been assisting the Rev. W. W. Orr at the tabernacle, conducted the service. She made a strong plea for pure and wholesome womanhood and pointed out from the Bible God's ideal woman.

Mrs. Ross said in the beginning that woman is the heart of the home and that she should examine her heart to see that it is right. Mrs. Ross declared that women should begin praying for their children before they were born and not wait until the time that their children were being formed and when they are growing into manhood and womanhood.

Mrs. Ross took as the topic for her talk the visit of Jesus to the home of Mary and Martha. She pointed out that Mary was God's ideal woman because she sat at Jesus' feet and listened to the gospel truths while Martha "stewed and fretted" in the kitchen about something to eat and bade Jesus to command Mary to help. She stated that Jesus replied that Mary was doing right by sitting at Jesus' feet. The speaker pointed out that there were many Marthas in the world to worry about earthly things that are trivial compared with things spiritual.

Mrs. Ross declared that the greatest joy in woman's life is service and that "action is the language of love and service is love's interpreter." "We have lost the art of entertaining," she continued, "for we excuse ourselves to worry and fret about something to eat when we should invite our friends to partake of that which we have, as our grandmothers did. There are more important things than that which we put in our stomachs."

Mrs. Ross deplored the fact that men and women go to foreign lands to work out the salvation of the heathen, when they should stay at home and care for their own heathens.

She believed that missionary work should begin at home. She expressed the opinion that such acts reflect on Christianity, as it leads to the belief that they are not sincere.

Mrs. Ross declared that many are the girls of today who worry about the clearness of their complexion and the whiteness of their hands rather than the whiteness and cleanliness of their hearts. She said that many girls and women have sins of omission even more than sins of commission. Sometimes, she said, the things that are overlooked are worse than our acts.

Mrs. Ross closed her pleasing talk with the expression that it was woman's duty to let her loved ones know how much she cared for them and their soul's salvation. She pointed out that God comes alike to rich and poor, high and low, and is no respecter of persons. She said that woman should give the very best she had to God.

Mrs. J. W. Turner, Mrs. A. W. Jamieson and Mrs. Cyrus Vocum prayed during the meeting.

HYDRO IS THE LATEST

BOAT-AIR FLYING MACHINE THE
ONLY NEW FORM OF AERONAUTICS.

BALLOONING IS AGEING GAME

Glenn H. Curtiss This Year Will Do a Seashore Trick for Inland People—Will Use His Newest Form of Air Craft at Winona.

Contrary to the common opinion, air-sailing is not a new, but a very old game. Long ago it was discovered that a bag, filled with gas, would soar toward the clouds, and many years ago men first risked their lives in this old, yet ever interesting pursuit. It is not air-sailing, but aeroplaning that is new. There is a vast difference between the two. Ballooning is accomplished with a bag of gas that is lighter than the lower air currents, and therefore tends to go upward, while the aeroplane glides gracefully into the air because it is propelled. It is heavier than air. If the motor stops the bird-like airship crashes to the ground.

But even aeroplaning has become a well-defined science, and the element of danger in it is greatly reduced. Accidents now are attributed to carelessness or ignorance to a large extent. It is only the very newest forms of this sport that now attracts the greatest attention—that of navigating with the hydro-aeroplane—that of jumping from the air down to the surface of the water, and then rising again into the air.

This feat has been accomplished but rarely. One of the most famous flights was made by McCurdy, who attempted to navigate the air from Key West to Havana, and who alighted in the water just outside Havana harbor. Demonstrations were also made at the Cataline islands for the navy. These two mark the most noted attempts of the kind, and both were performed far away from the inland, and to a large extent in parts of the world where only a few witnessed them. It has remained, indeed, for Glenn H. Curtiss to give the first inland demonstrations. His first flights will be made July 14 at Winona Lake, Ind.

Winona Lake has made it a fixed purpose to demonstrate to the public the newest of all things, while it gives the public the newest of lectures, the best of music, the novelties of science and magic, and holds, in short, for its high aim, the uplifting of the public vision.

It was in accordance with this purpose that Glenn H. Curtiss was contracted with to demonstrate to the people of the inland what very few of the coastwise states have seen—a demonstration of the boat-air machine, the hydro-aeroplane.

Curtiss is the man who invented the Curtiss biplane. He is one of the most famous of aviators. Whenever an aviation meet is mentioned, the name of the Curtiss biplane is found. The Wright brothers—who by the way are native Hoosiers and were born near Fairmount, Ind.—are perhaps the most famous of the birdmen. The Wrights began their work on the farm owned by their father in Grant county, Ind. Curtiss began his work as a messenger boy. And of the history of the work of the three men, it is likely that Curtiss really laid the more substantial foundation for his future inventions.

Curtiss was not lazy, but he was constantly working on an easier way of doing things. When yet a boy he conceived the idea of making a motorcycle. He worked out a plan, and finally made a successful motor-propelled bicycle. Later this invention was placed on the market, and still later Curtiss broke the world's record for speed by traveling a measured mile at Ormond Beach, Fla., in 26.25 seconds. A comparison of that time and the time made by automobiles, will show that Curtiss, four years ago, was traveling in a very fast class of speed-makers. The motorcycle in which he performed this feat was made by himself.

It naturally stands to reason that such a man can get a great deal of money for demonstrating the very newest of speed machines, and he has been contracted with at great expense. His flights will take place in the afternoon of July 14 at Winona Lake, and will be one of the biggest features of the week. The whole week, however, will be of more than ordinary interest. It will be "health week," when addresses will be delivered by Dr. J. H. Kellogg, Dr. David Paulson, Louise L. McIntyre and a number of others who have made the new ideas of health subjects their specialty.

Replete With Music.

Music at Winona Lake this season is the best that the assembly ever has offered. There will be whole weeks of musical program, when special bands will give daily programs. And in addition to this there are musical features of nearly every day, and some of the strongest musical organizations in the country will appear.

Has Sixty Lecturers.

Sixty lecturers will take part in the Winona assembly program this year. Many of these are straight lectures, many are amusing, many are illustrated and many others border on the form of lecture than is not a lecture at all, but an entertainment.

DECLARES FLATS DESTROY HOMES

Evangelist Orr Delivers Strong Sermon on "American Home" on Sunday Morning.

PLEADS FOR FAMILY ALTAR

Says Parents Should Protect Children from Drink, Cards, Dances and Evil Companions.

Declaring that flats have a tendency to tear down the American home; that the saloons of the country have their guns trained on the home of today and that in every home there should be a family altar, the Rev. W. W. Orr preached possibly the best sermon of the revival on "The American Home," at the Sunday morning service at the tabernacle. He deplored some of the conditions that exist in the public schools and higher institutions of learning with reference to the teaching of the Bible and took the father and mother to task who work on that theory that their children should be taught to play cards and drink so that they would not abuse the privilege when they grow to maturity.

He read a passage from the Bible and then rehearsed the story of Abraham and his wife entertaining the two angels and Jesus Christ while they were traveling, as a basis for his sermon on the home. He said there are three truths to be taken from the Bible story, namely, those who entertain the Lord enjoy sweet communion with him; those who entertain the Lord are acquainted with His secrets, and those who entertain the Lord, their prayers are heard and answered.

"I want to talk to you fathers a little while," the evangelist began. "The devil is training his guns in this day and time on the home. Every saloon has its guns trained on the young men and women of the country who go to make up the future homes. Divorces are breaking down the home as they have never done before. It is a blotch upon the fair name of the State of Indiana that nearly five thousand divorces were granted here last year."

"The home is being down trodden at every hand," he continued. "Many schools and colleges teach that the home is a thing of the past and that the Christian life is wholly outside of the home. It is infinitely bad enough for people to submit to the plan of the Bible not being taught in the public schools, colleges, universities and normals, but it is a shame that the old book should be stabbed by professors. I will grant you for the sake of harmony that it is all right not to teach the Bible in the public schools, but I am opposed to hiring infidels as teachers and professors in our colleges. I would rather have my child in heaven studying his a-b-c's than to have him wrecked and damned and be the best scholar in the land. Christian people have receded and receded until the young people are being debauched by the teaching in the colleges today."

"Another thing," Evangelist Orr asserted, "that is militating against the home is the flat proposition. The idea of people herding together like cattle and sheep. It destroys the American idea of home life and tends to wreck the home as scarcely anything else today is doing. Give me the home with plenty of free air to breathe. I would not live in a flat if I were compelled. I would do most anything else instead."

"You may burn down the schools, colleges, universities, elimosinary institutions, churches and court houses, but if you leave the home this country is saved. If you will build the home for God and righteousness with Christ as the center, all of the other good things will come. The home is older than the church and State. It is the corner stone of both and if the devil can wreck our home, he has ruined our country."

"The father is the head of the house," the Rev. Mr. Orr declared a few minutes later. "It was never intended that you women should rule the home. Father is the ruler by divine appointment. It is the most natural thing in the world for the wife to be at the head of the house. But some women come to me and say that their husbands can not be the ruler. Then, if you have married an 'it,' a neutral 'it,' do the best you can. As I have said before, the wife is the heart of the home; she is the center of love, tenderness and affection. Even if the head is off the heart may be all right. And I have heard preachers pray for the united head of the home. Such a thing is an absurdity. There can be but one head and that should be the father and husband. It is the duty of the wife, children, company, boarders, servants and all to obey the master. You should not allow outsiders to change the plans in your home. I am always fair with my visitors. If they do not care to obey the rules of our house, I divide with them. I give them the whole outside and I take the inside."

"It is the home training and discipline of the home that rules and makes the character of our boys and girls," was his next assertion. "There are few 'black sheep' that ever come from good homes. I will leave it to the attorneys if it is not nearly always the case that the criminals and fallen men and women come from the homes where there is no authority, no law and where the children go and come as they please."

Evangelist Orr referred to the children who are petted and allowed to enjoy the freedom of their own will and who attempt to run the school room when they enter it. He recalled how, when the school teacher who has the nerve, reprimands the child and possibly whips it, the father comes and threatens to prosecute the instructor because he has not allowed his child to control the school. The father takes the boy from school and the boy goes down on the street and tells that he and "pop" are running the school. "That's the boy that the policeman has to watch today; that's the boy that makes the criminal of today," he declared.

"You train your animals but not your children," he pointed out. "I'll ask you what kind of a colt would you have if you allowed it to run loose and never attempted to break it? Why don't you practice the same methods on your children? Some people ask me if I think parents should whip a child. I say use the moral persuasive methods so long as they accomplish the desired end and then try the gad. You read Solomon's advice which I just read to you. He had three hundred wives, seven hundred concubines and as many children accordingly. He ought to know."

"You should not only train your children, but you should protect them," continued Evangelist Orr. "The father should stand on his doorstep and watch his boy or girl leave home every time. He should insist on knowing the character of the companions which they have and insist that they be the right kind. We breed fine horses, cattle and other animals. If you pay no attention to your children's companions, then you should have no complaint when you have a little whipcord for a grandchild instead of a fine healthy child. "You should protect your boys and girls from cards and gambling," asserted the evangelist. "I would rather have a snake in my home than a deck of cards. They are connected with gambling. Some women have said to me that they have to play cards to keep their husbands home at night. That kind of a woman should knock her husband's teeth out, take the baby out of the cradle, put him in and give him the bottle."

Evangelist Orr warned parents to protect their children from dancing. He asked that the people of Rushville to question the owner of the Windsor hotel to learn what took place there the other night. He said that he made no accusations, but that he wanted parents to find out. He said the parents know the danger of the dance and they should warn and teach their children.

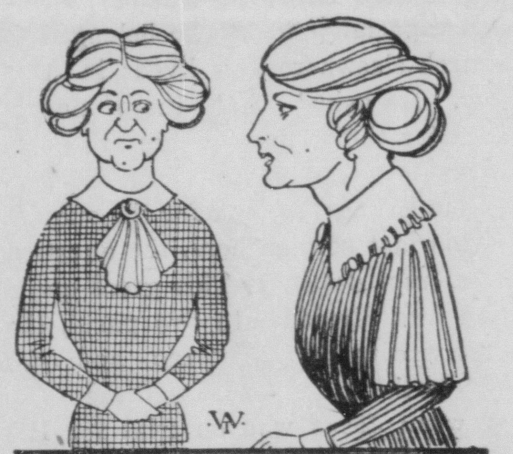

"And you should protect them from drink," the Rev. Mr. Orr declared. "The son invariably forms his habits after those of his father when his mind is in a formative state and his character is being made. No father should touch a drop of liquor and no man who permeates his body with drink, should have the right to be a father."

The Rev. Mr. Orr told a pathetic story of his own experience concerning his life-long chum, classmate and roommate in college. He told how his friend's father gave him and his son a drink one day and how he, after his mother had warned him not to repeat such a thing, resisted the worst temptation he ever overcame, when the boy's father invited him to take another drink and ridiculed him for refusing. His classmate was a drunkard in college and was finally expelled. He went to the University of North Carolina and was ordained for the ministry. He got on another spree, so the story runs, and was publicly rebuked. The Rev. Mr. Orr said he wanted to get on the floor and tell the Presbytery at that time that it was the boy's father and not he who was responsible for the boy's public shame.

The evangelist said that theory that children should be taught evil at home so that they would not abuse them was all "bosh." He declared that older men may be able to control their appetites, but that boys, when their life's habits are being formed, are liable to learn that which they may never be able to rid themselves of.

At the beginning of the meeting, the first offering for the evangelist was taken up. James E. Watson conducted that part of the meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Ross sang a duet.

"No more than could any one man drink all the liquors that are distilled."

"No; my wife pinned them on her cloak and the dog's blanket."

NOT TO TOLERATE BAD EGG DEALERS

W. E. Barnard Sends Field Inspectors all Over State to Watch For Law Violators.

LOCAL GROCERS GET WARNING

Rushville Produce Dealers Prepares to Investigate Customers on Question—Heavy Penalty.

The campaign against bad eggs is to be waged all over the State and Rushville, it seems, will be included. Local grocers and hucksters have received posters which they are displaying on their wagons and in windows and which are warning against the sale and keeping for sale of bad eggs. The penalties provided for conviction on both the first and second offenses are very heavy. Local grocers are preparing to be very careful about the eggs they handle as they do not care to be convicted under the new statute.

Walter Thomas of the Adams Produce Company is making preparations to avoid violating the new law. He is having instructions concerning the sale of eggs printed which will be distributed among all of his customers. He will deliver the instructions himself. Hucksters are also carrying a copy of the law so that they may warn their customers against the violation of it.

H. E. Barnard, head of feed and drug department of State Board of Health, has sent the warning broadcast all over the State. Field inspectors have also been employed to go into various districts over the State and will devote the entire summer to the bad egg question. The inspector for this district was in Decatur county only a few days ago. They are armed with apparatus for candling eggs. Among the specific instructions given to the inspectors are that they prosecute all grocers, produce dealers and hucksters who are found with bad eggs in their possession.

"The small grocer is the person who is giving us the most trouble in handling the bad egg question," says H. E. Barnard, head of the department. "Many of the small grocers buy eggs from farmers' wives, and they will not candle the eggs in the presence of the women, because they fear they will lose customers. Some of them candle the eggs later and throw out the bad ones, but most of them sell the eggs to shippers just as they are bought."

"The field men are instructed to test eggs found in grocery stores and to prosecute where bad eggs are found. It will be no excuse for the grocer to say that he intended to candle the eggs, or to sell them 'loss off.' The egg situation is so bad that stringent measures must be adopted to issue good eggs on the market. We can not, at this time, go direct to the farmers, so we must get as close to them as possible. If the grocers can be induced not to buy eggs except 'loss off,' the farmers soon will learn to care for the eggs and not to offer bad ones for sale."

A dealer from the southwest part of the state spent some time in conference with Mr. Barnard on the egg question. He said that in a shipment of fifty-seven cases bought a few days ago, only seventeen cases were found to be all good. The percentage of bad eggs in the remainder, he said, was very large.

Letters are being received from all over the State, assuring the department of co-operation in the campaign against bad eggs. Many of the letters contain information as to where bad eggs are being stored, or where they are being sold. This information is being placed in the hands of the field men as rapidly as it is received.

DR. SARGENT CLASSIFIES WOMEN AS NEAR SAVAGES.

Calls Them More Primitive but More Enduring Than Men.

That woman is a lower order of being than man and that she has not developed as rapidly from the barbaric state as man is asserted by Dr. Dudley A. Sargent, head of the department of physical culture at Harvard, director of the Sargent Gymnasium For Women, in Cambridge, and well known as a writer upon subjects pertaining to women's development.

"Woman is nearer the savage state than man," says Dr. Sargent. "Her development is more primitive than man's, just as the Indian is more primitive than the white man."

"Woman being biologically more of a barbarian than man, she has a greater proportion of physical endurance. She can undergo many strains that a man cannot."

"Women accumulate energy, while men expend it. Women have been developing their muscles, while men have been developing their brains."

"Woman is nearer to nature. She is a lower type of organism. But when it comes to a case of withstanding cold or hunger or thirst or any physical privation of this sort a woman can outlast a man in nine cases out of ten."

"It is foolish to go on the principle, therefore, that women must be kept from all labor and all exercise and be taken care of as though they were pets. They should do everything possible, obviously, to preserve the closeness to nature of which I have been speaking. It is more necessary for the good of the race for women to look after their physical well being than it is for men."

MAY GET MORGAN MILLIONS.

Japanese Niece Prospective Heiress as Result of Cousin's Death.

The recent death of George H. Morgan, cousin of J. Pierpont Morgan, makes it probable that a large share of the Morgan millions will be enjoyed by a Japanese woman.

The prospective heiress is the aristocratic oriental beauty, Mrs. Yuki-Kate Morgan, whom George Dalton Morgan married in 1904 at Yokohama on his trip around the world. George Dalton Morgan is the son of George H. Morgan, who married his cousin, J. Pierpont Morgan's sister.

Young Morgan is now in Japan. There were reports one time that the marriage did not meet the complete approval of the elder Mr. Morgan. But little Mrs. Yuki-Kate Morgan is a daughter of one of the finest families in Japan, and when she arrived in this country with her husband she charmed everybody.

In Chicago, on the trip across the country, young Morgan had said that he did not know exactly the opinions of his relatives concerning his marriage, but that nothing could possibly alter his devotion to his pretty spouse.

REV. DR. MAC ARTHUR

Head of Baptist World Alliance Going Abroad.

BAPTIST ACTIVITIES

Dr. MacArthur Preparing to Extend His Sphere of Influence.

New York, June 26.—Because of his election as president of the Baptist World Alliance, the Rev. Dr. Robert S. MacArthur announced to his congregation Sunday that it will be necessary for him to be much absent from his church (Calvary). He will go soon to Russia to see the czar of the Russias and to Rome to see the pope.

"The time has arrived," said the preacher, "when the czar and the pope must learn that this is the Twentieth century, not the Fifteenth, and when the voice of religious democracy must be heard even in Peterhof and the Vatican."

MADERO PROMISES PEOPLE NEW DEAL

The Poor to Have Same Chance As Rich.

Mexico City, June 26.—Another manifesto to the Mexican people has been issued by Madero in which he says that the taxes are to be distributed equally among the rich and the poor, but that while waiting to inaugurate the new laws, he will call upon the governors and other officials of the states to see that small landholders and merchants are taxed lightly, while the heavier burdens are put on the large landowners. Capitalists of foreign nativity are to receive absolute protection, but Madero hopes they will not attempt, as formerly, to try to influence the governing authorities in any way to secure special privileges as he says it will be useless. He assures the people that the poorest worker will have the same rights as the rich employer. He promises to investigate doings of the Diaz administration and that which is not done in accordance with the law will be remedied.

It is already apparent that Madero will be opposed by two or more candidates for president at the election to be held Oct. 1. Already national political parties are being formed by leaders of the various beliefs and ambitions. Each party will have its own candidate in the field for president. The impression is general that one of the new parties will choose General Reyes as its candidate for president. It is thought that he will be unable to resist the pressure that will be brought to bear upon him to make the race. Nicolas Zuniga y Miranda is already an avowed candidate against Madero.

IT MEANS MILLIONS

Supreme Court Decision Gives Illinois Some Extra Money.

Springfield, Ill., June 26.—An addition of some $2,000,000 annually to the revenue of the state of Illinois was assured when the state supreme court decided that the legislators can empower an officer of the law to examine individuals' property to see if schedules have been falsified.

The section upheld requires every bank, trust company, vault company and corporation in Illinois to notify the attorney general and state treasurer before they transfer any property (including book transfers of all stocks and registered bonds of corporations) under their control, standing in the individual or joint name of, or owned by a decedent, resident or nonresident of the state.

Parkersburg, W. Va., June 26.—Sergeant Lewis O. Phillips, recruiting officer here for the United States marine corps, will soon face a court martial in Washington, D. C., where he has been taken. Phillips was married here last November to Miss Francis McAttee and is alleged to have a wife and son living in Davenport, Ia.

LOEB WILL URGE INSTANT ACTION

Alleged Gem Smugglers In Bad With Uncle Sam.

THE JEWELS OF MRS. JENKINS

These Gems First Came Into Notice Two Years Ago in a Case of Mysterious Robbery—They Now Bob Up Again, It Being Charged That They Recently Evaded Customs Duties, and Kenosha Millionaire Is Involved.

New York, June 26.—That the government is not disposed to deal leniently with Nathan Allen, the multi-millionaire leather maker of Kenosha, Wis., who is charged with aiding the fascinating Helen D. Jenkins in smuggling into this country $300,000 worth of jewels, was manifest when it became known that an effort will be made to indict not only Mr. Allen, but also John Collins, a prominent coal merchant of Nashville, Tenn., who is alleged to have been a party to the act.

Collector Loeb has placed in the hands of United States District Attorney Wise evidence which will be submitted to the federal grand jury one week from Wednesday, and will urge that both Allen and Collins be indicted.

"Mrs. Jenkins" and her gems first came into public notice two years ago when she reported they had been stolen from her hotel. Now the same Mrs. Jenkins has come back with her jewels again in her possession and lodged information with Collector Loeb to the effect that the greater part of the trinkets were given to her by the admiring but aged millionaire, and that the millionaire brought them in from Europe with a certain forgetfulness of the need of paying the government's stipend, amounting to probably a good deal over $100,000.

For weeks the subordinates of Collector Loeb have been working on the case under the direction of Deputy Surveyor Richard Parr. According to the custom authorities Mrs. Jenkins recovered the jewels some time after their disappearance in 1909. The recovery was accomplished through a private detective agency.

It seems that information was privately given out after the jewels vanished in 1909 that this agency had the means of securing their return. Mrs. Jenkins employed the agency and the jewels came back. As far as the customs officials know, they have not been "stolen" from Mrs. Jenkins since then, and she very recently had them in her possession.

Mrs. Jenkins, before she was Mrs. Jenkins, lived in other cities than New York, including New Orleans, Chicago and Memphis. She passed under several names and had a number of wealthy admirers in the west.

MINERS WILL MEET

To Receive Instructions in First Aid to Injured.

Washington, June 26.—In line with the efforts to reduce the number of deaths in the coal mines of the country the bureau of mines will hold a national first aid to the injured field meet on Saturday, Sept. 16, at Arsenal park, Pittsburg. President Taft, Secretary of the Interior Fisher and Dr. J. A. Holmes, director of the bureau of mines, will attend and speak to the miners. The bureau of mines will have the co-operation of the Pittsburg Coal Operators' association and the American Red Cross. It is expected that between 20,000 and 30,000 miners will attend and that many of the important coal companies will send their trained first aid and rescue corps to take part in the exhibition. A number of teams have entered and are in training for the event, which promises to be the most important gathering of miners ever assembled.

A DOUBLE SUICIDE

Illinois Girls Carry Out Unhappy Pact of Death.

Ridgeway, Ill., June 26.—A suicide pact between two girls was carried out when Jessie Cobban, seventeen years old, and Lucy Davidson, aged eighteen years, drank poison.

The Cobban girl had quarreled with her parents and was living with Miss Davidson. Fearing that the former's parents would seek to recover her, the girls agreed that in such an event they would die together.

When a constable called for Jessie the girls drank the poison and both expired within a few minutes.

Fire Claims Four Victims.

Nantucket, Mass., June 26.—There is only an even chance of the recovery of Thomas Kerr of New York from the burns he sustained Saturday night in his unsuccessful attempt to save the lives of Miss Helen Wilson of New York and Miss Mildred DeHaven of Brooklyn when fire destroyed the boat-house of William Barnes, jr., of Albany, chairman of the New York state Republican committee. Ulysses Padua, a Frenchman, twenty-one years old, employed by Mr. Barnes as a valet, died from the effect of burns received in a desperate attempt to rescue the young women.

Deformed, Reformed 4th.

If we are to have a regenerated July Fourth, it is necessary to give the American boy some positive field for red-blooded activity in order to charm his attention from the beloved dynamite fire cracker and deadly toy pistol.

Simply prohibiting certain kinds of fireworks is merely challenging the ingenuity of our resourceful youth, who outnumber the police 50 to 1, and are as easily to be rounded up and put to bed at 9 p. m. as a colony of little eels.

It is one of the traditions of our race, dating back beyond the dawnings of history, to have some day of public frolic and merry making, when the ordinary rules of sober go to meeting citizenship are discarded.

Young America seized on July 4th as offering an outlet for this instinctive habit. But if you can beguile him with ball games and running races that morning, he will keep himself in training by peaceful snoozing the night before.

The Fourth of July comes next and then the Chautauqua.

Considering that George Fifth's crown cost $7,500,000 he is not in any position to criticize the cost of his wife's summer hat.

A baker's trust has been organized, but the rolling pin will continue to be a weapon of offense and defense in many homes.

The Nashville Tennessean finds fault with W. J. Bryan for eating pork chops in June, but no man ever lived on mush and milk and ran a successful newspaper.

Mr. Bryan may not run for President next time, but it is evident that the Democratic candidate has got to keep his ear closely glued to the telephone from Lincoln, Nebraska.

The park about New York's new library is fully occupied, and if they would serve pink tea inside, perhaps some one would come in and look at the books.

If Congress is going to get Uncle Sam's garden hoed before the snow flies, they've got to do something besides smelling around the pig pen for bad odors.

The need of more amusements for the farmer was discussed at the National Conference of Charities. The ways of the folks that come up from the cities seem to give considerable diversion, though.

The law school graduates are getting lots of advice to maintain the ideals of their profession, but most of them seem to think that if you live the higher life you will never become higher up.

It has cost $800,000 in special attorney's fees to prosecute the trusts for two years. We may never get the money back, but it's worth it to feel you can start a peanut stand without asking Wall street.

The tabernacle meetings have closed with over two hundred conversions. The saving of lost souls is not the only good that will result and has already resulted from the revival.

The meeting together of the people of Rushville every night for over two weeks has brought them into closer fellowship and has made them better acquainted. Rushville will long feel the influence of the evangelist's personality and his work. And it may result in the organization of Rushville men to better the moral and social condition of the city. The good can scarcely be estimated. Ministers and people have come to know one another better and people in all classes and walks of life have been thrown together in a common work.

We shall feel better when we get by the spiritual unrest among the rural Pegasus, caused by Alfred Austin's Coronation ode. We can already hear 'em champing their bits and preparing for a descent on this office.

Indiana will be signally honored by the presence in its State capital of President Taft on July 3 and 4, and the whole world will be interested in his expressions on two of the problems of government now uppermost in the public mind—Canadian reciprocity and international arbitration.

Mexico is now footing up the bills of expense incurred by the successful effort to overthrow the Diaz machine and the total is likely to be a substantial sum. Revolutions are expensive indulgences in more ways than one.

Dr Hurty's herculean efforts to save the babies is commendable. So many people are getting lynched, and killed in automobile and motorcycle races, not to mention the fatalities in aeroplane and warship disasters, that the little ones are sure to be needed.

At last the government of the United States has formally recognized the new Republic of Portugal. There was a time when this, the largest Republic in the world, gave prompt assistance to embryo Republics, and only a few years ago the government of the United States recognized the Republic of Panama almost before any one was aware a Republic had been formed. In the case of Portugal this government delayed recognition unusually long.

The next most beneficial move would be to bust the trust that is busting the trusts—the lawyers' trust. For under Attorney General Wickersham's liberal administration of the department of justice, the next best thing to being a trust is to be a trust-buster. It is said that consternation was created among congressmen when the lawyers who aided the government in investigating the trusts, sent in their bills for their services. The amount now reaches nearly a million dollars.

The Richmond Palladium, the photographic record of the Philadelphia North Americans, digs up a new accusation against James E. Watson—although it was believed that in the last State campaign about every conceivable charge had been made against him. It accuses Mr. Watson of "eating ortolans at the New Willard hotel." Did he really do it? And is that what Senator Beveridge ate at Richmond which so distressingly disturbed his digestion during the last campaign? Are we to understand that Mr. Watson has become addicted to the ortolan habit? And is a species of buttermilk or a new $1.40-per-portion name for fried potatoes?—Marion Chronicle.

A Circuit Court judge in northern Indiana has just held the State accounting law unconstitutional. It is not known at this time upon what grounds the court based its decree, but it matters not what it is so long as the people of the various counties, municipalities and the like, are relieved from further "milking" at the hands of the $10-a-day gentry sent out unasked to prey upon the various public treasuries of the State. All the accounting necessary could be done in any community at perhaps one-tenth of the expense under the present system. Let us hope the decision of the northern Indiana circuit court will be upheld by the Supreme Court when the appeal, which is sure to be taken by the interesting accounting board officials, finally reaches that court of last resort in the State.

Rushville is a beautiful city and it should be kept clean and beautiful.

Every citizen can contribute to this end by keeping his own premises clean and attractive. Tidiness and good taste are catching, and the example set by one person is likely to be followed by his neighbor. But, if not, he has the reward of consciousness that he has contributed to making his community a better place to live in.

Here is a pledge that every well meaning citizen who is interested in the welfare and progress of Rushville, can take and religiously keep with benefit to himself and the community at large: "We, the undersigned, pledge ourselves to refrain from throwing, dumping or in any other way scattering loose paper, tin cans or other refuse in our yards, or in any public place, alley or vacant lot. Furthermore, we will burn our rubbish in such a manner as to prevent such scattering. We will also use our influence to further this movement in favor of keeping our city clean."

The prevailing custom of seeking to suppress criminal news has quite exhausted the patience of the editor of the Oakland City Journal. In a recent issue the editor says: "If you violate the law you need not ask the Journal to suppress the news, because it will not be done. Court records are public property and of public concern. If you don't want the news published when it concerns you, you will have to quit making news that the public is interested in. The Journal makes this statement of its position now that the people of this community may be governed by it in the future. The frequency of requests to suppress news in the last few weeks has worn out patience to the breaking point. If such requests are made in the future they are liable to be answered with more details and heavier headlines than would otherwise be given, and the statement will also be made that the parties involved asked to have the news suppressed."

Republican extravagance is the great Democratic campaign slogan, and as regularly as election times come around the Democrats promise economy by all that is holy. Recent news dispatches, state that State officials, with the administrations of Governor Marshall half over, now recognize the necessity of an early increase in the state tax levy, despite the constantly increasing property valuations. The records show that not only have no offices or bureaus been abolished, but the state house payroll has been largely increased. The apparent thing is that if these platform charges of extravagance were honestly made, the increases in expenditure under the present State administration are inexcusable, and the talk of an increase tax levy is evident of repudiation of platform pledges. The only effort that has been made to reduce expenses is that of Governor Marshall, who has tried to save money at the State prison and reformatory by turning loose fifteen per cent. of the prisoners by the pardon route.

While farming has been a profitable occupation for some years past, yet as a class the working farmer is not found among the plutocrats. The vast majority of agriculturists have but a moderate income, and they certainly earn it. Why they should have been selected as the starting point to break down a protective tariff is not easily comprehended. All Republican national platforms have advocated their protection. No Republican majority in either branch of Congress has ever failed to vote for the maintenance of such protection. In the present Congress, as in the last, a majority of Republicans has stood by the historical tariff principle of the party.

In 1897 the Republican party regained control of all branches of the government, and retained it until March 4, last. Within this period of nearly fourteen years farming in this country advanced with unparalleled strides. The value of farm crops in the United States was $4,000,000,000 in 1897, and $9,000,000,000 in 1910. This great stream of solid wealth was distributed among the farmers of all the states. They received good prices for their products and the value of their lands largely increased. Were their profits excessive? No one will say so who fairly weighs the average and counts the labor and energy demanded. The high cost of living can not be charged to extravagant profits for farmers. They have prospered since 1897, but what they have earned has gone into millions of pockets. They are not rolling in wealth by any means. The Democratic free-trade raid upon them is a wanton performance.

The government's June crop report indicates a record breaking wheat crop and other cereals well up to or above the average. The crop prospects in Rush county are very encouraging.

have the offerings of the last day. James E. Watson conducted the raising of the money at the morning service when about $600 was subscribed and taken in the collection boxes. The afternoon men's meeting collection was good as was the evening collection. That is the only money which he received for his work here.

It is estimated that the number of converts during the meeting will total more than two hundred and fifty. This morning two hundred and forty-four could be counted and a number of other stragglers who have not signed cards yet could be recalled. Yesterday was the banner day of the meeting in point of number of converts. The day was started by five going forward at the United Presbyterian Sunday school, three at the Main Street Christian, and two at the First Presbyterian. The number of ten was raised to sixteen, when two young men joined at the men's meeting. The total for the day amounted to sixty-five when the night service closed. Four were converted at a meeting held at the Mission church by Evangelist Orr Saturday afternoon.

At the closing meeting Evangelist Orr took occasion to pay his compliments to the many interests that went to make the meeting a success. "The time is coming when you near the end," he said, "the end of your journey. Two and one-half weeks ago we started this meeting and it looked as if it would be a long time. First I want to thank the ministry for inviting me to Rushville for I have been glad to be with them."

Following that he paid his compliments to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ross, the press, the ushers, orchestra and brass band and to the janitor, who has remained at the tabernacle night and day. He said that the meeting would not have been so successful without any one of these. The evangelist declared that the newspapers did much good for the meeting and he congratulated the people of Rushville that they had two such daily papers. The Rev. Mr. Orr thought very much credit was due the ushers and members of the orchestra and band who have so faithfully attended.

The Rev. Mr. Orr left this morning at 11:32 o'clock for his home in Charlotte, North Carolina, in order to be there in time to perform the ceremony at the wedding of his daughter which will take place Wednesday. He will open a meeting in one of the churches in his home city Wednesday night. After that he will conduct a meeting in Newberry, North Carolina, after which he will enjoy a few weeks vacation before beginning another year of strenuous work.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ross will go to New York soon to take part in a series of tent meetings in the city. They always devote their summers to that work in New York City. Their work was very much appreciated here and it is generally conceded that the meeting would not have been the success that it was without the assistance and leadership of the two singers.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Rushville Ministerial Association this morning:

We, the undersigned, members of the Ministerial Association of Rushville, Indiana, having just closed a union evangelistic meeting under the leadership of Dr. W. W. Orr of Charlotte, N. C., desire to bear testimony to our great satisfaction of his work. Dr. Orr won the respect and admiration of all Christians of all churches. The results were highly gratifying and the evangelist carries with him the love and prayers of all our people. Seldom did his evening audience number less than two thousand, and the last meeting was the largest in number, the greatest interest and in the number of confessed conversions. Unhesitatingly we commend Dr. Orr to any ministerial association desiring an evangelist for a union meeting. Evengel.

leader than Napoleon and the cause is righteousness.

"The worst disease in the world is the 'can't's' and the only way to get rid of it is to kill it. A bad Christian is a disgrace to God. Those who say you 'can't' vote a town 'dry' do not know what they say, for you can. In my home city they said we can't vote out the saloon, but we worked hard for four months and did vote it 'dry.' The only drawback to your beautiful city is the saloon and I hope you people will get together and vote them out. When they tell you they 'can't,' they are mistaken for you can. A general once ordered the drummer boy to beat a retreat and the boy replied, 'I can't.' The general was taken back because the boy would not do it, but the little fellow had never been taught to retreat and instead beat the order to charge and the battle was won.

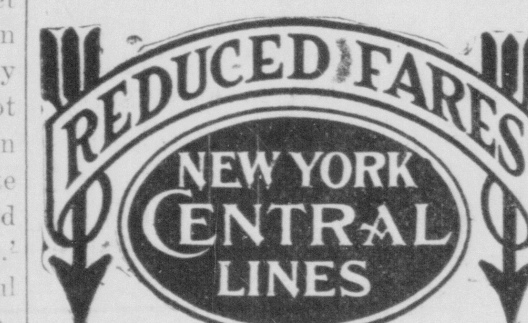

"Cromwell bombarded Pembroke castle for days and days, but could not gain entrance and finally gave up all hope. He met a cobbler on the street who offered to tell him how to gain entrance. The cobbler took Cromwell to a spot outside the castle and told him here was the pipe conducting the water supply and if he would cut it the castle was his. Cromwell ordered the man hanged as a traitor and then took the castle. I believe Cromwell did right for there is nothing as low and mean as a traitor. Do you think you are loyal to God when you attend the dance or sit at a card table?

"After Lee surrendered at Appomattox, Grant won the hearts of all southerners by not accepting his sword. Lee was stopped on a lonely road by one of his men who had been with him for four long years. The man desired only to give three cheers for his defeated general way out there in the wilderness. This is what I call loyalty and we must have the courage and grace to yell for our Saviour anywhere and any time."

To the unsaved the Rev. Mr. Orr stated that they would have to answer the same as the Christians, and he wanted to know what they would do with Him. "The unsaved may reject, neglect or accept Him. What are we going to do? Some argue that Christ was not the son of God. This is poor argument for He was either the son of God or a liar and the greatest impostor the world ever knew. Would you look into His face as he hangs on Calvary or turn your back and have nothing to do with Him? There was once a very beautiful woman and in saving her daughter from the flames, received burns and was disfigured for life. Instead of being beautiful she was as ugly as sin. The daughter grew up and was sent to college. During her vacation she brought some friends home with her. On the way home from the depot her mother passed on the other side of the street and one of the girls asked who the hideous creature was. The daughter was ashamed of her own mother and said she did not know her. This was a horrid thing to say about her own mother and the woman to whom she owed her life. There are some here that are ashamed of God and have rejected Him.

"During the civil war a young man offered to serve in the place of an old man and went to that awful conflict as a substitute. When the war was ended he came back, arriving at the old man's house late at night. He was refused admission although he had lost a leg and had been in battle after battle only as a substitute. Jesus substituted for you and He knocks at the door, but you do not let Him enter. You hold it against Him. "Everyone here can throw open the door and accept him. It is up to you, reject, neglect or accept Him. You have Him on your hands and you can do one of the three."

What promises to be a novel and also unique dance will be given in the Modern Woodmen hall one week from Thursday night. The dance will be called a "hard time" hop because of the fact that everyone is asked to wear old clothes. Overalls and soft shirts will be in vogue and the principal idea will be to dress so as to keep cool. The "rube" dance promises to be well attended and already much interest is being shown. In all probability Farley's orchestra will be engaged.

AMUSEMENTS

The Star Grand will show three pictures tonight. The first is an American drama entitled "The Opium Smuggler." It is an unusual dramatic sensation, teeming with originality and dealing as its title suggests with the illicit traffic of smuggling opium.

The second picture is an Itala comedy, "Foolhead a Wrangler For Love." The third is also an Itala comedy entitled "Marriage Midst the Sausages." The last two pictures are screamingly funny.

The Portola will show two good films tonight, one of them a feature picture. "The Reformation of Jack Robin" is a Melies drama. It is a thrilling western story that is said to be an excellent reproduction of frontier life. "The Justice of Claudius" is a colored film and is said to be a beautiful production. At the same time it tells a story of great interest. Charles VanCamp will sing the new illustrated song.

The Palace will open under a new regime tonight. The management announces that changes will be made every night in the week with the exception of Wednesday and Saturday nights. Tonight "Helping Him Out," a Lubin comedy will be shown. It is said to be a picture with many humorous situations and scenes. "The Tramp and the Child" is an Edison drama that is replete with human interest and has an intensely interesting plot. Charles VanCamp will sing.

The Vaudet will show two films tonight. The Ambrosia, "Traces on the Snow" is a drama that is said to be the rival of any picture of a similar nature ever shown here. It is a story of the days when knighthood was at its height and has to do with the trials and tribulations of a young couple who would become man and wife. "A Tale of Ebon Twins" is a Reliance comedy that is said to be very funny. Leon Maxey will sing "Up the Ricket Stairs."

CHAPTER XXXV.

The Cabin Taken.

His heart beating with new happiness, yet conscious of the stern duty still confronting him, Keith joined the others, giving them, in a whisper, a hurried account of Hope's release from the cabin, and of what she had to report.

"It's old Juan Sanchez in the front room, boys," he added soberly, "and there is ten thousand dollars reward out for him, dead or alive."

Joe of the "Bar X" drew in his breath sharply.

"It'll sure be dead then," he muttered, "that cuss will never be got no other way."

They went at it in the grim silent manner of the West, wasting little time, feeling no mercy. One by one the unconscious sleepers were aroused, each waking to find a steel barrel pressing against his forehead, and to hear a stern voice say ominously: "Not a move, Johnny; yes, that's a gun; now get up quietly, and step out here." Resistance was useless, and the five, rendered weaponless, were herded back toward the corral. They all belonged to Hawley's outfit; one, a black-whiskered surly brute Bristoe remembered having seen in Sheridan. There was no time to deal with them then, and a "Bar X" man was placed on guard, with orders to shoot at the slightest suspicious movement.

The Indian, then, would be guarding the front of the house, and Sanchez sleeping inside. Well, the former could be left alone; his chance of escape would be small enough with Fairbain and Neb on the opposite bank. Old Sanchez was the villain they wanted—dead or alive. With this in view, and anxious to make a quick job of it, the three entered the back room, and, revolvers in hand, groped their way across to the connecting door. As Hope had described, this had been securely fastened by a stout wooden bar. Bristoe forced it from the sockets, not without some slight noise, and Keith, crouching down at one side, lifted the latch.

"Keep down low, boys," he cautioned, "where he can't hit you."

With one quick push he flung the door wide open, and a red flash lit the room. There were two sharp reports, the bullets crashing into the wall behind them, the sudden blaze of flame revealing the front door open, and with it the black outline of a man's figure. Two of the men fired in instant response, leaping recklessly forward, but were as quickly left behind in the darkness, the outer door slammed in their faces. Outside there was a snarl of rage, another shot, a fierce curse in Spanish; then Keith flung the door wide open, and leaped down the step. As he did so he did so he struck a body and fell forward, his revolver knocked from his hand. Rising to his knees, the dim light of the stars revealed a man already half across the stream. Suddenly two sparks of fire leaped forth from the blackness of the opposite bank; the man flung up his hand, staggered, then went stumbling up the stream, knee deep in water. He made a dozen yards, reeling as though drunk, and fell forward, face down across a spit of sand. Keith stared out at the black, motionless shape, felt along the ground for his lost gun, and arose to his feet. Bristoe had turned over the dead body at the foot of the steps, and was peering down into the upturned face.

"It's the Indian," he said grimly, "Sanchez must 'a' mistook him for one of us, and shot the poor devil."

And Sanchez himself is out yonder on that sand-pit," and Keith pointed; then lifted his voice to make it carry across the stream. "Come, on over, Doctor, you and Neb. We've got the gang. Bring that body out there along with you."

The "Bar X" man waded out to help, and the three together laid the dead Mexican outlaw on the bank, beside the Indian he had shot down in his effort to escape. Keith stood for a moment bending low to look curiously into the dead face—wrinkled, scarred, still featuring cruelty, the thin lips drawn back in a snarl. What scenes of horror those eyes had gazed upon during fifty years of crime; what suffering of men, women, children; what deeds of rapine; what examples of merciless hate. Juan Sanchez!—the very sound of the name made the blood run cold. "Dead or alive!" Well, they had him at last—dead; and the plainsman shuddered, as he turned away.

Taking Fairbain with him and hastily reviewing late occurrences to him, Keith crossed over to the corral, realizing that their work—his work—was not wholly done until Hawley had been located. With this quest in mind he strode straight to the black-bearded giant who had guarded Hope from Sheridan.

"What is your name?" he asked sharply.

The man looked up scowling.

"Hatchett," he answered gruffly.

"Well, Hatchett, I am going to ask you a question or two, and advise you into the power of these armed men, and then turn him over to the law to be dealt with. The very thought nauseated him. That would be a coward's act, leaving a stain never to be eradicated. No, he must meet this as became a man, and now, now before Hope so much as dreamed of his purpose—aye, and before he spoke another word of love to Hope. He wheeled about fully decided on his course, his duty, and met Fairbain face to face.

"Jack," the latter said earnestly, "I read the note over your shoulder, and of course I know what you mean to do. A Southern gentleman could not choose otherwise. But I've come here to beg you to let me have the chance."

"You?" surprised and curious. "What greater claim on that fellow's life have you than I?"

The pudgy hands of the doctor grasped the plainsman's shoulders.

"It's for Christie," he explained brokenly. "She was the one he tried to run away with. You—you know how I feel."

"Sure, I know," shaking the other off, yet not roughly. "But it happened to be Miss Walte he took, and so this is my job, Fairbain. Besides, I've got another score to settle with him."

He wasted little time upon preparations—a few brief words of instruction to Bristoe; a request to the doctor not to leave Hope alone; the extracting of a promise from the two "Bar X" men to return to Larned with the prisoners. Then he roped the best horse in the corral, saddled and bridled him, and went into the cabin. She had a light burning, and met him at the door.

"I thought you would never come, but they told me you were unhurt."

"Not a scratch, little girl; we have been a lucky bunch. But I have had a great deal to look after. Now I shall be obliged to ride ahead as far as the water-hole, and let you come on with the others a little later, after you get breakfast. You can spare me a few hours, can't you?"

His tone was full of good humor, and his lips smiling, yet somehow she felt her heart sink, an inexplicable fear finding expression in her eyes.

"But—but why do you need to go? Couldn't some of the others?"

"There is a reason which I will explain later," he said, more gravely. "Surely you can trust me, Hope, and feel that I am only doing what it seems absolutely necessary for me to do?" He bent down and kissed her. "It will be only for a few hours, and no cause for worry. Good-bye now, until we meet to-night at the water-hole."

The east was gray with coming daylight as he rode splashing across the stream and up the opposite bank. She watched him, rubbing the blinding mist from her eyes, until horse and man became a mere dark speck, finally fading away completely into the dull plain of the desert.

JURY DECLINED TO UPHOLD CONTENTION

Student Failed to Make Case of Malice.

Michigan City, Ind., June 26.—In the case of Mott Corcoran against William J. Henry, a wealthy business man, and M. S. Brown, city marshal of Valparaiso, a jury in the superior court here returned a verdict in favor of the defendants.

In January, while Corcoran was a student at Valparaiso university, the hardware store of Mr. Henry was robbed and Corcoran was arrested as a suspect and held in jail five days, when he was taken before a justice of the peace for a preliminary hearing. The justice of the peace decided that there was no cause of action and dismissed the case.

Then Corcoran brought suit for $10,000 damages, alleging that his prosecution was the outcome of malice on Henry's part, that he was held in unwholesome quarters of the jail and that he was dismissed from the university.

The defense was based in part on the allegation that the burglar, whoever he was, cut himself in breaking a glass window and that tracks and blood spots led from the store almost to the Corcoran premises. These tracks, it was asserted, corresponded to tracks in the store basement, and both corresponded to Corcoran's shoes. Blood stains were found on Corcoran's coat the day of the arrest, it was alleged, but the plaintiff in the present case alleged that these came from a cut of the scalp, suffered in a fall.

HEALTH BOARD GAINS A POINT

It May Appoint Special Food Inspectors.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S RULING

Advices State Board of Health That Employment of Special Agents in Towns and Cities Is Legal—Under an Act of 1909 Expenses Incidental to Maintenance of Such Inspectors Fall Upon the Local Municipalities.

Indianapolis, June 26.—According to an opinion given by Attorney General Honan to H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner, the food and drug department of the state board of health has the right to appoint special food inspectors in cities and towns of the state, their salary and the expenses to be paid by local municipalities. This will mean that the state health board may, if it elects, name inspectors to investigate sanitary condition of places where food is kept, in every quarter of the state or to investigate the purity of food products.

It is stated that, under the provisions of the cold storage regulation act, passed by the last legislature, it is made the duty of the state board of health to enforce its provisions, and the state food and drug commissioner and the food inspectors are given power to enter buildings and make inspections.

"The duty enjoined upon the state board of health," says the opinion, "to enforce the provisions of said act, impliedly, at least, gives it the power to appoint necessary inspectors to enforce the same."

Under the provisions of an act passed by the general assembly of 1909 the expenses incidental to the appointment and the maintenance of inspectors may be paid by local municipalities, Mr. Honan says.

MYSTERIOUS ATTACK

Terre Haute Woman Victim of Second Unaccountable Assault.

Terre Haute, June 26.—Mrs. Ralph Shelburne, the bride who was tied to an arbor Tuesday night by a stranger, was again attacked Saturday night. This time she was walking in the yard of a neighbor, Mrs. C. E. Holton, and was accompanied by Mrs. Holton. The assailant said nothing, but began tearing the clothing from Mrs. Shelburne. The women screamed and when Mr. Holton and Mr. Shelburne ran into the yard the assailant jumped a fence and escaped down an alley.

SCARCE'S DEFENSE

Indicted Indiana Lumberman Says He's Not Guilty.

Mooreville, Ind., June 26.—Harry S. Scarce, secretary of the Indiana Retail Lumbermen's association, one of the fourteen indicted by the federal grand jury in Chicago, said that he was not guilty of blackmailing, as charged in the indictment. Further than this Mr. Scarce would make no statement, saying that he wished first to consult his attorney. Mr. Scarce is forty-five years old has been in the lumber business for twenty-five years.

The Deadly Live Wire.

Marion, Ind., June 26.—"Mamma, a snake is wrapped around Paul down in the alley," said a four-year-old son of Mrs. Charles Merkle at Gas City, innocent that he was giving the first intimation that Paul, aged eight, a brother, was dead. The mother found a live wire entwined about Paul's body and his clothing was on fire. While playing in the alley he had come in contact with a broken electric light wire.

Apparent Case of Suicide.

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 26.—The body of an unidentified man was found on the bank of the old canal near this city. There was a bullet hole in his left breast, and by his side a revolver with one chamber discharged. He was well dressed in a blue serge suit. It was evidently a case of suicide. The man was probably about fifty years old, had red hair and was smooth shaven.

Brakeman Killed by Train.

Greencastle, Ind., June 26.—Carl Leavy, a Big Four brakeman, was killed here by being struck by a passenger train. The trip on which he was killed was his first one over the road.

Woman Hangs Herself.

Portland, Ind., June 26.—Sarah E. Snyder, aged sixty years, committed suicide by hanging. She is believed to have been temporarily insane.

Suddenly Stricken Blind.

Laporte, Ind., June 26.—Charles Pugin bent over to inspect his automobile, and when he straightened up his sight was gone.

Bribery Charge Not Sustained.

Nashville, Tenn., June 26.—The jury returned a verdict of not guilty against Judge E. C. Goodpasture, charged with offering to bribe Representative J. Q. McDonald of the Tennessee legislature.

EDWARD HINES.

Chicago Lumberman Named In Connection With Lorimer Case.

TAFT WILL TALK ON REVISION OF TARIFF

In His Indianapolis Speech On July 4.

Washington, June 26.—That Mr. Taft is opposed to any tariff revision at this time has been made clear to senate leaders. The president objects not only to any amendment to the reciprocity bill lowering tariff rates, but believes that the program for passing independent bills revising schedules is ill-advised. His attitude will have a still further depressing influence on the efforts of Senator Jones and others looking to a plan of tariff revision in which Republican regulars and insurgents were to unite and relieve the consumer and confuse the Democrats. The plan has already met the disapproval of some Republican leaders, who point out that nothing could come of such a Republican legislative program while Democrats control the house. Mr. Taft believes that tariff revision should wait upon the reports of the tariff board. The president, it is thought now, will outline a plan of tariff revision based on the board's report when congress meets in regular session in December.

In the next important speech he is to deliver, at Indianapolis, on July 4, the president will deal with the general subject of tariff revision. It is regarded as certain that he would veto the reciprocity bill if it comes to him loaded down with amendments dealing with tariff revision, and there is little doubt also that he will decline to approve the farmers' free list bill and the other tariff measures of Democratic origin, if these pass the senate.

Gus Conzman Out on Parole.

Leavenworth, Kan., June 26.—G. A. Conzman, a former banker from Terre Haute, Ind., has left the federal prison here on parole. Conzman began serving an eight-year sentence Jan. 30, 1906. He left here for Terre Haute to see his wife. He intends to take a month's rest before going to work, he says.

Overruled Motion For New Trial.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 26.—Judge McReynolds in criminal court overruled the motion for a new trial in the case of Dr. John W. Sherman, under a ten-year sentence for killing his brother-in-law, Thomas B. Norman.

LORIMER CASE BEING PROBED

Senate Committee Hearing Further Evidence.

MORE IMPORTANT WITNESSES

Among These Will Be Roger Sullivan, Head of Illinois Democracy, Edward Hines of So-Called Lumber Trust, and Others—Clarence S. Funk, Who Testified Before the Helm Committee, Asked to Tell Story to Senate.

Washington, June 26.—Before the senate committee which is investigating the charges of corruption in the election of Senator Lorimer, Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester company, took the witness stand today. Mr. Funk is the first direct evidence as to the alleged request for a contribution of $10,000 from the harvester company which Funk charges was made by Edward Hines of the Edward Hines Lumber company. The testimony taken by the committee last week was preliminary and collateral to the main line of the investigation.

With Funk's testimony today the committee began to unfold the main story of the allegations of bribery and corruption in the election of Senator Lorimer.

Hines to Be Called.

Mr. Funk will be followed by Edward Hines, who is charged with having requested the $10,000 contribution from Mr. Funk. Edward Tilden, president of the National Packing company, who Funk says was mentioned by Hines as the receiver of the alleged $100,000 corruption fund, will also be heard this week. When these three witnesses have been heard, the main story of the inquiry will be revealed to the members of the committee and later witnesses will be called to amplify and corroborate Funk's story. It is probable that Governor Deneen of Illinois and several other less important witnesses will testify this week.

A subpoena has been issued for Roger Sullivan, Democratic national committeeman from Illinois, whose name was mentioned Saturday by H. H. Kohlsaat, editor and publisher of the Chicago Record-Herald, Mr. Sullivan having never appeared before either the senate committee on privileges and elections nor the Helm committee of the Illinois legislature, which investigated the Lorimer election last winter. While the members of the committee do not know whether or not Mr. Sullivan has any valuable information on the subject, Chairman Dillingham thought it advisable to summon him on account of his prominent position in Illinois Democratic circles.

Committee's Plans.

Enough witnesses have been subpoenaed to keep the committee in session here for more than two weeks. Chairman Dillingham wishes to hear as many witnesses as possible in Washington so that the committee will not have to be away from Washington for any great length of time while the senate is in session. It was the original plan to begin hearings in Chicago on July 5 next. It is not likely, however, that the witnesses who have been summoned here will be able to complete their testimony before the end of next week. Later the committee intends to convene in Springfield, Ill., to take testimony of the members of the legislature which elected Lorimer.

BOLD THIEF

Held Up and Robbed Treasurer of a West Virginia Church.

Wheeling, W. Va., June 26.—Brooks E. Adams, treasurer of the First Christian church, was held up by a masked bandit and robbed of the church collection Sunday in the pastor's study while a large congregation was listening to the morning sermon not twenty feet away.

The robber leveled a revolver at Adams, who was counting the collection, took the small basket and disappeared. Adams went immediately and notified the congregation and the police, but no trace of the man was found.

Ended in Chauffeur's Death.

Memphis, Tenn., June 26.—Charles McDonald, a chauffeur, was killed and four persons sustained minor bruises as the result of an automobile accident here.

MEN ORGANIZE TO SAVE OTHERS

yond the grave to eternity. This salvation proposes to take us poor sinners and make something infinitely better than angels. It makes us the son of God."

Evangelist Orr stated that salvation is great because of what it costs. He pointed out that he could sell his watch in Rushville at any time for $5,000 if it were the only watch in the world. He said that if a man were to come here and offer a $5,000 horse for sale, every man would take notice for they would know that it was a good horse else such a price would not be asked for it. He said that men would know that horse was valuable because such a price was asked for it. He stated that men are here today because Jesus Christ died for them, because he paid the price.

Evangelist Orr declared that salvation is valuable because it is the only salvation in heaven, on earth or in hell. He pointed out that no other can be found.

"There are two classes who neglect salvation," continued the evangelist. "The Christian man neglects it. Yes, they all say that they have accepted Jesus, but there is not one here today getting all out of it that is possible and all that God intended they should. How can you fail to dwell and lessen your life if you neglect this great salvation?"

"Then," he said, "there is a class of men who neglect to give this great salvation to others. The vast majority here are professing Christians. If you and I are honest—and I hope you all are, for I hate a hypocrite—how are we going to escape the judgment of God if we do not give it others. Look at your watch for one-half minute. Now that the time is up, do you know that it is calculated with almost mathematical correctness that one unsaved man drops into eternity with every tick of your watch? God says, 'Go ye into all the world,' and yet you men sit idly by here and allow the heathens to go down to death and destruction while you enjoy your idle pleasures and concern yourself only with the making of money.

"My mission here," he continued "is almost closed. This meeting has cost me more physical strength than any which I have conducted in the last twelve months. I did it first for God and secondly for you. Are you going to repulse the God because he would save you. The greatest thing I see in this world is men's meetings. It is remarkable the good that the business men may do by banding together to save men. The time has come to bury this little sectarianism and stop over-churching the towns. Reach out to other towns, other States and finally across the ocean to heathens beyond. Would it not be great if it were possible that the business men of Rushville, banded together, could put a missionary in the foreign field, for instance a young man or woman from your own community? There are men here who could lay Rushville at Jesus' feet before Christmas if they would work. I want to see the men who will consecrate themselves to saving others stand on their feet. Men, get together and organize permanently your personal workers league. Liquor men have a personal liberties and, why should not Christian men have a worker's league?"

"Unsaved fellows! How are you going to be saved if you neglect salvation? The workers go to you, your ministers go to you and you put him off with a 'not tonight.' That is the commonest sin in the world. It is not only that, but it is foolish and inexcusable. It is even more than that. It is suicide. Let us suppose that I find a man in the gutter with a wound in his arm and the life blood oozing out. I call Dr. Parsons and he offers to stop the flow and save the man's life. The fellow replies, 'not now, I'll wait until some other time. I'm not responsible for this wound and I don't see why I should try to cure it.' If I could lift the covering from hell now and bring some of those poor victims up here before you, the vast majority would say that it was not the common sin that put them there, but the fact that they thought they had time enough. This is the last time I will ever see you before the judgment day. It is my last thought and hope that you will be there. If this Christian religion is true, don't you need it and need it now? Isn't it a business proposition? I urge you to accept the Christ now."

While making his plea, he said that he and the Rev. Mr. Jefferies sat in front of the Windsor hotel Saturday night and counted twenty-nine men go in one bar room in fifteen minutes. He pointed out that was about one every half minute. Two young men confessed while the plea was being made.

Dr. L. M. Henry of Greensburg, a returned missionary from India, conducted the opening of the meeting. Harry Ross sang "The Holy City" with much effect. The Rev. J. W. Turner made a plea for the offering for the evangelist. He said he hoped it would be like the collection taken at an Italian camp, not a red cent in the box. James E. Watson, E. B. Thomas, T. A. Craig, Dr. F. R. McClanahan and B. F. Miller sang after the taking of the collection.

GLENWOOD COUPLE ELOPED IS RUMOR

Said That Miss Lotta Bebout and Harry Wilson Left, Bent on Getting Married.

HE GOT DIVORCE FROM WIFE

Glenwood people are disposed to believe that Miss Lotta Bebout and Harry Wilson of that place eloped to some point east, possibly to Newport or Covington, Kentucky, and were married yesterday. The two people slipped away Saturday night and as yet no word has been received from them. Miss Bebout has been staying with Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Reese. Saturday night they went to Indianapolis on business and Miss Bebout took that opportunity to elope, so it is supposed. There is no authentic report that they were married, but that is commonly believed to be the case, as the two people have been keeping company without the knowledge of Mr. and Mrs. Reese, who opposed the marriage, so it is said. Wilson is several years older than the alleged bride, and received a divorce from his first wife in the Rush circuit court.

They will discuss two of the most vital questions before the American people—Peace and Prohibition. The exercises begin at 10 o'clock.

Book of Home Menus

Showing "What to Serve" and "How to Set and Decorate a Table."

A book to be highly prized, containing table settings beautifully illustrated in natural colors. Also twenty-four menus and more than one hundred recipes for cooking in a

"Caloric" Fireless Cookstove

You will be amazed at the seemingly impossible, almost unbelievable, things it does. It actually bakes cake, pie, bread, biscuits, etc., and actually roasts meats, chicken, game, etc., without any fire whatever except that supplied by the radiators (heated a few moments over a flame the same as an ordinary flat iron), as well as steams, stews, boils, etc.

You can cook practically everything for the family table, better and more wholesomely, more nutritiously, richer in flavor and at less cost than is possible any other way. You can do so the year round, summer and winter.
